

Metropolitan Ceramics Showcases Unglazed Quarry Tile at Coverings 2014

Amid the many styles of tile, porcelain, and stone products to be shown at Coverings 2014 in Las Vegas, there is one booth that will feature a product different from most of what you will see at the show.

Metropolitan Ceramics may well have the only booth at Coverings dedicated completely to durable, natural, quarry tile.

Quarry tile is an important part of the ceramic tile family. Look into the back of most commercial kitchens and on the floor you will see slip resisting, quarry tile.

The same holds true for countless other installations indoors and out where a tile is needed that is economical and will stand up to heavy traffic, spills, cold/heat, freeze/thaw, impact, and abrasion.

Metropolitan Ceramics has a long history dedicated to manufacturing quarry tile and has sold millions of square feet over the years.

Metropolitan quarry tile has been installed in both residential and commercial settings such as transit terminals, patios, rest areas, walkways, pool surrounds, entryways, car showrooms, commercial laundries, cafeterias, mudrooms, sun-rooms, locker rooms and so much more.

Metropolitan Ceramics manufactures extruded quarry tile in a variety of shapes, sizes, colors, and textures – well beyond the simple red 6”x6”.

Whether the design calls for a walkway with a classic 4”x8” shade variation paver tile or a monotone color for a large dining area, Metropolitan Ceramics quarry tile will meet the need.
